Apr. 1, The Taming of the Shrew: Live Theater

7:30–9:30 pm | Suze's Center for the Arts- Cabaret Theater, Prescott
Ah, the tale of Kate and Petruchio, and how each cracked the code to the other's ferociously defended heart. It's a Shakespearean rabble-rouser, held up as the ultimate battle of the sexes. But look closer, and you'll discover a lively satire about how society tries to bend this couple into shapes they're simply not built for. Cheer them on as they shatter everyone's absurd expectations. After all, their dramatic (and often uproarious) journey toward love isn't just entertaining. It's revolutionary. Doors open one hour before each performance. More information at prescott.org

Apr. 2, Still Life With Iris: Live Theater

2–3:30 pm | Suze's Center for the Arts- Studio Theater, Prescott
Iris lives with her mom in the land of Nocturno—a magical place in which the workers make, by night, all of the things we see in the world by day, a world where memories are kept in the pockets of everyone's coats. The rulers of Nocturno, the Great Goods, are determined to have the "best" of everything on their island—and therefore take Iris away from her home and bring her to Great Island to be their daughter. To ease the pain of this separation, they remove her memories, leaving her with no recollection of her home or her family. Using a single clue, Iris joins with friends she meets on her journey—Annabel Lee (a young woman from the sea) and Mozart (the composer, age 11)—and frees herself from the Great Goods. She returns to Nocturno, having found her past and her home. Doors open one hour before each performance. More information at prescott.org
